

1. Does money lead to better schools?
2. Should schools be the highest priority in our society?
3. When testing students should demographics be taken into consideration?
4. Are standardized tests accurately reflecting the intelligence of students across the country?
5. How do cities go about getting more funding for their schools.
6. What should be the first step in bettering these schools that Kozol talks about?